

Welcome to the School of Mathematics and Statistics.

My name is Sonia, and I am the Research Administration Officer. I am here to support you with research-related matters and to help direct you to the appropriate resources and contacts within the School and the University.

To help you get started, here are some useful resources:

- As a staff researcher, a Sydney Profile is the ideal way to showcase your work.
To get started:
Log in to Sydney Profile Manager and make sure your Sydney Profile is accurate by completing these three steps:
 1. Add your ORCID
 1. Claim your research identifiers.
 2. Update your profileHelp is available to guide you through profile set-up and other tasks to prepare your Sydney Profile. More information about writing your profile here.
- The “People” page on the School Local Front Page has a great list of contacts for you. Members of the School
- The Research Portfolio is a great source of knowledge for any research related questions, including funding opportunities and ethics submissions.
- The Research Integrity and ethics area run a mandatory training module for all new staff called Responsible Research Practice (RRP), this can be accessed via Workday.
- You can find further information on training via the Learning & development area
- The Library also provides research services, support and training to researchers. Here’s their Research Support page: Library Research Support
- At the School of Mathematics and Statistics we have our own publications database. You need to submit every new publication to this database: Submit a publication

All research publications are collected, including Books – Authored Research, Book Chapters – Commercial Publisher, Journal Articles – Refereed, Scholarly Journal and Conference Publications – Full Papers Refereed.

I hope you are settling in well. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or if there is anything I can assist you with.

Best wishes,

Sonia Morr
